

Eligibility to Teach Your Selected Subjects

Do you meet the requirements to teach your chosen secondary school subjects?

To enrol in our Postgraduate Diploma in Teaching, Secondary, School based programme, you must already hold a bachelor's degree in a field connected to the

New Zealand secondary school curriculum.

To focus on your selected teaching subjects, you will generally need to have completed coursework in that subject to 300 level (or the equivalent of the final year of undergraduate study).

All applications are reviewed by our academic selection panel, who will assess your previous qualifications.

If you are unsure whether you meet the subject requirements, we encourage you to apply. Our team will guide you through the following steps of the application process.

After becoming a qualified teacher, you may teach any subject approved by your employing school.
